Strengthen Your Financial Leadership and Strategic Thinking

The International Executive MBA in Finance and Control program is tailored to finance professionals gifted with the talent and drive to become CFOs. Financial leadership requires a vision of how value creation can best be steered and controlled across the world to enhance competitiveness. The program strengthens participants' strategic thinking and financial leadership by providing new knowledge, skills and tools that can be applied immediately in practice.

Embrace the Challenge of International Financial Leadership Roles

The program is run by a partnership of three leading institutions: Aalto University Executive Education, NHH Norwegian School of Economics and Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam School of Business and Economics.

All three institutions have an impressive track record of highly evaluated and accredited executive programs and have earned a reputation for delivering high quality finance professionals and CFOs in their respective countries.
The International EMBA in Finance and Control program is designed to boost careers in finance. While many finance functions have become rather specialized, this program provides an opportunity to focus on the broad knowledge and skills needed to prepare for a future role as CFO. It integrates general management capabilities with the specific requirements of the business partner role, reporting role and fiduciary role of senior finance professionals.

The program hosts an internationally diverse group of participants from multinational corporations providing an inspiring community with the potential for a ‘deep dive’ in several areas relevant for future CFOs. In addition to the opportunity to exchange ideas and experiences in class, the participants also provide a lifelong network.

The program is designed to cover both the relevant academic knowledge and the practical experiences of multinational corporations and their financial leadership. Experienced CFOs from multinational corporations are invited to discuss the international aspects of their strategic and operational challenges.

Manage Your Personal Learning Goals

Before the start of the program, each participant outlines their personal learning goals. These goals are finalized during the first module. Each of the modules facilitates an assessment and evaluation of progress in achieving the personal learning goals. This strengthens the program’s emphasis on establishing international finance leadership and challenges participants to integrate learning from different areas of the program at the end of their studies.

Gain Access to the Alumni Network(s)

All graduates automatically become members of the alumni communities of their institution(s) of choice. The alumni communities continuously arrange events, company visits, and meetings with fellow alumni. With thousands of alumni worldwide, these communities provide valuable networks to connect with. We offer you access to the latest knowledge and an extensive global business network.

Dive Deep into Yourself

Self-development is an important part of the program; it supports you in the process of personal development as a leader and as an individual throughout your studies and way beyond. It includes self-steered studying and inspiring workshops with the support of a professional coach.

Enhance your Leadership Skills

The program develops strategic thinking and financial leadership by providing new knowledge, skills and tools that can be applied immediately in practice. Just as important, you will gain insights into becoming a world-class leader – skills that never lose their relevance and which will be extremely valuable along your future path.
